At some point, maybe it will not work so well, or I will find something like UroLift that will make me pull the trigger.

Our drug costs are out of control because that's the way the pharmaceutical companies want it.

was that “Scared Straight” actually made youth more likely to reoffend, it’s really

It’s sexist to use the word rape as if the word means one thing when actually it can only marginally be called rape, but could better be called intercourse without consent.
